PRODUCT THEATERS

Highlight your company's new products and services! Share new findings on key products! Conduct product details and demonstrations to attendees! ASCP is pleased to offer your company with an opportunity to reach your customer in a small interactive forum during its Product Theater programming.

Successful programs have included expert presentations from peer users, demonstration of new technology, and in-depth discussions on particular products and their use in senior care. Product theaters are a great way to have your sales force understand the needs of their customer even better! These programs allow your sales force to pose questions of attendees and find the answers they need to better position their products in this market!

Time slots are limited; don't miss this opportunity to provide a unique value-added service in one venue to your pharmacy and nursing customers!
